Jumbo Secures Gambling Commission Software Licence Approval in Great Britain

Jumbo Interactive Limited (ASX: JIN) (Company or Jumbo) is pleased to announce that the Gambling Commission (GC) has approved and issued a remote gambling software operating licence to Jumbo. This enables Jumbo to supply its proprietary Software-as-a-Service (SaaS) online platform to GC-licensed operators, which in-turn provide gambling and lottery services to consumers in Great Britain. The software operating licence is in addition to the external lottery manager operating licences (remote and non-remote) already held through Jumbo's wholly owned UK subsidiary Gatherwell.

"We are delighted to achieve this international expansion milestone which, together with our local subsidiary Gatherwell, will drive our growth strategy in the UK charities market" said Mr Mike Veverka, CEO and Executive Director.

"This is an important step in Jumbo expanding its footprint in the UK following the great work carried out by the Gatherwell team to date", he said.

Securing this licence empowers Jumbo to execute its dual offering in the UK market consisting of (1) a pure play SaaS solution; and (2) a managed charities solution operated by Gatherwell. The new licence also provides immediate access to an increased addressable market in the UK as it supports and powers lotteries of any size or level of sophistication.
